

Longitudinal Data from fall 2016 to Fall 2019 for MAPS scores.

Results are very interesting when considering our small sample size. Some classes have gained or lost kids which can sway the results dramatically in specific grades. Some are homogeneous while others are not.

